[redacted] and loaded with furniture and boxes, left the Luetzendorf Kaserne, the Tannenberg Kaserne and, source believed, also the Flak Kaserne toward west. <sup>1</sup> Between 27 April and 3 May, about 50 boxcars were assembled at the east section of the Weimar railroad station. <sup>2</sup>25X1 2. On 27 April, the Luetzendorf Kaserne in Weimar was occupied by about 200 to 250 troops who wore red-bordered black epaulets with artillery or motor transport insignia; and black-bordered crimson epaulets; in addition to about 150 to 200 sick, who were also quartered there. Beginning 24 April, about 15 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets and carried baggage daily arrived at the Tannenberg Kaserne, coming from the railroad station. Some of them marched to the Luetzendorf Kaserne. <sup>2</sup>3. On 27 April, the Tannenberg Kaserne was occupied by about 250 to 300 troops who wore red-bordered black epaulets, including some with artillery and motor transport insignia. <sup>2</sup>4. On 27 April, the Flak Kaserne was occupied by about 150 to 200 troops wearing red-bordered black epaulets, including 40 percent with motor transport insignia. <sup>3</sup>

2. [redacted] Comment. During previous personnel exchange programs, the transient quarters of the Eighth Gds Army had always been located in the Tannenberg Kaserne. The arrival of troops, in connection with the information of the 50 boxcars assembled at the railroad station, tends to indicate that a shipment of personnel, presumably to the USSR, was in preparation.
